

ICF Appoints New Energy & Infrastructure Leader

Leadership Transition Supports Rapid Business Growth Amid Rising Energy Demand

RESTON, Va., Feb. 10, 2026 /PRNewswire/ -- ICF (NASDAQ: ICFI), a leading global solutions and technology provider, today announced senior vice president Kyle Wiggins as the new leader of ICF's energy, environment and infrastructure (EEI) client market. Wiggins succeeds Anne Choate, who became president of ICF earlier this year.

Prior to this role, Wiggins led ICF's utility program and services division within EEI for six years. During this time, the division experienced record growth and strengthened its position as one of the leading providers of demand management, electrification and energy efficiency programs for utilities across North America. In his new role, Wiggins will lead a multidisciplinary team serving commercial, federal, state and local clients across ICF's utility, energy, environment and infrastructure, and disaster management portfolios.

"Growing energy demand continues to shape the pace and scale of our energy, environment and infrastructure business," said John Wasson, ICF chair and chief executive officer. "With more than 20 years of experience in the energy sector and deep operational expertise, Kyle has played a key role in our growth in this market. His ability to unite teams, deeply understand our clients' needs and deliver consistent results will be critical as we continue to grow in a strong market environment."

"Demand for our energy and infrastructure expertise across various client segments has never been greater," said Wiggins. "ICF is uniquely positioned to help our clients navigate this rapid transition, and I'm looking forward to working with our expert teams to drive even more value to our clients at such a pivotal moment."
